Flamingos are a theme at the new exhibit -- "Chocolate!" -- at Phipps Conservatory in Oakland.

Phipps Flamingos -- some of them candy-coated -- are the co-stars of the "Chocolate!" exhibit opening today at Phipps Conservatory and Botanical Gardens in Oakland. Chocolate in its many forms is represented in displays, including a chocolate factory, cocoa tree and lots of plants with sweet-sounding names, such as Chocolate Drop Coleus, below. The show runs through Oct. 19.
